New England Mutual Life Ins.,
Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843, Capital and accumulation, $650,000.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy in every branch of its business.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium. The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and give to their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

The undersigned has been duly appointed Agent of the above named companies, and is now prepared to take risks and issue policies upon all kinds of insurable property at the lowest rates of premium. In this connection all losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this connection all losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The Hunters' Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

One bright, beautiful forenoon, some three or four hundred miles after we had passed the outpost, some five or six of the old veterans of the Northwest company's men who were returning with us from the lower station on Yellow Stone, proposed, as the steamer drew up alongside the bank to wood—which for the last four days had been done by cutting and splitting the green scrub oak, poplar and other such small growth as grew along the bank most convenient to the boats, and placing so much as we could of it on the top of the boilers to keep dry—these old hunters proposed, as I was about to say, to have a buffalo hunt while the steamer was wooding.

"Now then, lads," said Judah Gaily, as he led his Indian mustang ashore and flung himself into the saddle the last of our party—"now then, lads, we are all ready, and we'll keep this trail up the river to the Little Walnut Bottom, where we shall find buffalo any time after noon."

Off we went at a brisk canter, and excellently mounted, and each armed with a prime rifle, besides the usual outfit peculiar to the frontier, consisting of pistols, and a delicate bit of steel some fourteen inches in length, half an inch thick in the back, and keen enough to shave very cleverly with, which arbitrary custom had christened and made famous as the Arkansas tooth pick.

It was about 10 A. M. when we left the steamer, and so well did our horses perform after six days rest, that by half past twelve we raised the sharp ridge which cut the course of the river at right angles, nearly twenty miles by the channel and over fifteen miles by the route we had come from the steamer, and ten minutes thereafter, we were tearing headlong down the northern slope of the ridge, urging our horses like mad men to fall upon a herd of full a thousand and buffalo, most of which were drinking when we first discovered them.

At first old Judah raved and shouted and cursed us for crazy know nothing fools, for thus driving right into a herd of buffaloes, among which there were doubtless at least thirty monster bulls, who would trample us to death as easy as a mastiff would crush a mouse beneath his paw.

But the old hunter's warning was lost upon my companions, who had sucked at their side arms during the ride till they were utterly reckless of everything. As for myself, that was my first appearance on a prairie since in the character of a buffalo hunter, and little did I know or care of the danger attendant on an experiment like ours.

When Gaily said that all warning was useless, he gave a tremendous whoop, and dashing forward at the head of our little troop, he shouted:

"Come on, ye cursed fools! ye'll learn something before ye get out of this bottom, or my name ain't Judah Gaily!"

On the level bottom, and about a hundred rods from the base of the ridge, was a belt of wood, which hid the buffaloes from our sight as we gained the level; but from the great tramp we could hear on the other side, we judged that the herd were all on foot and rolling off towards the prairie. We were mistaken, for just as we reined in our horses on the edge of the belt of brushwood, which we found impassable, a quick cry of alarm from one of our party called our attention towards the river bank not three hundred yards distant, and there, stretching from the wood to the base of the ridge, was a solid wall of curly pates, vast humps and brawny shoulders of at least two thousand animals, which had been concealed by the banks, so that we had not seen them from the ridge.

On they came—that avalanche of monsters, with smoking nostrils, gleaming eyeballs, and their short stumpy horns forming a serrated hedge more formidable than ever did the bayonets of even Napoleon's favorites—invisible "Old Guard."

"Back! back to the ridge before they come upon us!" yelled two or three of our number; and very calmly, old Judah commenced to reply:

"Back to the ridge, eh? Fools! which of you has ever seen a horse that has been ridden fifteen miles, keep pace with a buffalo bull? It is full three hundred rods from here to the foot of hill, while these fellows are less than a yard from us. You see we must—"

"Ha—by the heart of Jacob Astor! we are in a tight place now, lads," he yelled out as he was interrupted by the mazy whiz of at least a dozen rifle bullets, some of which came so near our persons, as I myself judged from a sharp snap on my metal canteen, slung under my left arm, and a rather clear aperture through the lapel of my hunting frock.

"Now ye see, lads, we must work our horses into this thicket if we can, so far that none of them rolling devils will get a foul of us, and when they are all past we must steer for the river, for you fellows are Crows, and we had better take our chances among the horns and hoofs of these critters than to get in range of them red niggers' rifles. Come! come, lads! In with ye!"

But the old hunter's advice had occupied several moments of our time that should have been devoted to digging into the bramble, and ere a single horse had made a break into the dense wall of briars, twigs and foliage, the buffaloes, with a roar, a plunge and a crush, were upon us.

In a moment we were separated, one here and another there, in among a hedge of thorns, and amid a continuous roar of buffalo bull thunder, we were borne on, helpless and impotent, in the centre of the vast herd, while at short intervals, I could hear the sharp ringing report of the Crows' rifles, followed by the whistle of their bullets: but as if by a miracle for full twenty minutes, during which time the herd was confined between the belt of brush wood and the ridge, we were hurried along with them, without any one of our number receiving the slightest injury either from the buffaloes or our friends the Crows.

At last, when the head of the belt of timber was gained, and the herd began to spread out and sweep to the westward, by some singular chance the old hunter and myself were flung together, and at the same time out clear of the buffalo stream on the left.

For a single instant we reined in our horses, and as we did so, I pointed to the Indians—some fifty in all, I should think—who had ridden along the summit of the ridge, keeping just about the same distance from us that they had been at first.

"Yes, I see the red thieves," said my companion, very calmly, as his eye followed the direction of my finger. "I see 'em, lieutenant, and I can tell you they carry the Cincinnati rifle—too light to kill a hard-shelled old fellow like me, this distance. But our boys are all off west with the buffaloes, and we are left here to play a hop and dodge with the thieving Crows."

"Well, we must back to the river, and find it somewhere, for you see them skunks are dividing—about forty of 'em are coming down to follow the buffaloes and our fellows, and them other sneaks—ton of 'em—will hang around us till they wing us, unless we can play the Indian better than they can. Come, lieutenant," and the next breath we were dashing away towards the river, while the ten Crows were gradually closing in with us as they urged on their horses towards the river.

We were within perhaps two hundred yards of the bank, when the heads of at least thirty Indians thrust up above the feathered scarf of fern that grew along the very edge of the bank.

"This won't do, lieutenant," said the old hunter, apparently not the least moved as far as I could discover. "It won't do, sir," and he caught my left hand bridle rein, whirling my horse's head away from the river with his own; and as both animals dashed off over the ground just traversed, old Judah went on—

"It's no use, lieutenant, to try for the river now. There's five hundred of the thieving Crows on the other side, and the only chance is now, to distance them devils on the hills there, and get far enough ahead of 'em to cross the ridge again and pull out for the steamer. And now, lieutenant, don't worry down your animal in the start, nor above everything else don't waste a single bullet. We shall want 'em every one before we get clear."

At the moment we turned to retrace our steps the savages whose heads we had only seen above the fern, now rose fully in view, horses and all, as they rushed up the bank; and in less than thirty seconds were thundering along on our trail, while the ten warriors on the hill side came yelling on after us, keeping up a dropping fire which we were too busy to reply to, until they would come within sure range of our heavier pieces; which at the rate we were going, we began to hope there was little prospect of their doing.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1854.

THE MASS CONVENTION AT MADISON.—A large delegation from this city were in attendance at the people's convention at Madison on Thursday, and all whom we have seen since their return concur in representing it as very fully attended, enthusiastic, harmonious and most respectable in the character of its members.

About fifteen hundred persons are said to have been present, from all parts of the state, and all parties were represented both in the convention at large and in its officers. Prominent men from the three parties addressed the convention, and there was, as nearly as we can learn, a disposition to drop all matters of former difference and take up the issues forced upon us by the passage of the Nebraska bill. A friend who attended the convention has furnished us with the names of persons composing the officers and committees as nearly as he can recollect them.

A temporary organization was effected at 11 o'clock a. m., by the choice of Gen. Wm. Blake for chairman. A committee on permanent organization was appointed, which after a recess till 2 o'clock, reported the following as the officers of the convention:

John Walworth, president.
S. Wakeley, of Walworth, Albert Smith, of Milwaukee, Wm. Blake, Dodge, Charles Rooser, Manitowish, J. S. Mills, Grant, Hollis Sank, W. W. Noyes, Columbia, J. O. Bartlett, Racine, and N. W. Dean, Dane, vice presidents.

H. Rublee, Dane, L. F. Frisbee, Columbia, secretaries.

J. A. Sleeper, Charles Holt, of Rock, W. Spooner, of Walworth, D. Atwood, of Dane, R. A. Bird, of Ozaukee, B. Dunwiddie, Green, and S. Baird, of Dodge, committee on resolutions.

The following was then reported as the "platform," and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the repeated and long continued encroachments of the slave power, culminating at last in the repeal of the law of freedom in all the hitherto ungoverned territory of the Union, forces upon us the conviction that there is no escape from the alternative of freedom or slavery, as a political issue which is to determine whether the future administration of the government shall be devoted to the one or the other.

Resolved, That we accept this issue, forced upon us by the slave power, and in the defense of freedom we co-operate and be known as Republicans, pledged to the accomplishment of the following purposes:

To bring the administration of the government back to the control of first principles.

To restore Nebraska and Kansas to the position of free territories.

To the repeal and entire abrogation of the fugitive slave act.

To restrict slavery to the states in which it exists.

To prohibit the admission of any more slave states into the Union.

To exclude slavery from all the territories over which the general government has exclusive jurisdiction. And to resist the acquisition of any more territory unless the prohibition of slavery therein forever shall have been first provided for.

Resolved, That in furtherance of these purposes, we will use such constitutional and lawful means as shall seem best adapted to their accomplishment; and that we will support no man for office under the general or state governments, who is not positively and fully committed to the support of these principles, and whose personal character and conduct is not a guaranty that he is reliable.

Resolved, That we cordially invite all persons, whether of native or foreign birth, who are in favor of the objects expressed in the above resolutions, to unite with us in carrying them into effect.

After the adoption of this platform, the convention voted for the appointment of a state committee, to consist of three at large, and two from each congressional district. The following compose this committee:

At large, — White, Dane, chairman, J. A. Sleeper, Rock, E. Wunderly, Milwaukee.

1st dist., W. Spooner, Walworth, E. B. Walcott, Milwaukee.

2d dist., John Walworth, Green, Orsamus Cole, Grant.

3d dist., S. Baird, Dodge, the other not remembered.

The meeting was addressed in the afternoon, by Messrs. Mitchell, of Fond du Lac, M. H. Orton, Gen. Paine, L. P. Harvey, and G. B. Ely, of this county, and H. S. Orton, after which adjourned till evening. On the re-assembling of the convention, speeches were made by Messrs. J. A. Sleeper, Dunn, Stebbins, McKee, Johnson, J. S. Mills, Dodge, &c., and the speaking continued until 10 o'clock, when the convention adjourned with three times three cheers for the "Republican Party."

During the past year $16,000,000 of the public debt has been paid by the government.

ST. PETERSBURGH AS IT IS.—A letter writer represents St. Petersburg, as gloomy indeed. The city once so beautiful and full of life is not to be recognized. Palaces are converted into barracks, bridges are broken down; quays are deserted; no person is allowed to be out after nine o'clock at night; the city is under martial law; foreigners are under suspicion; trade is stagnant, and manufacturers at a stand still.—The magnificent guard has gone away; partly to Poland and partly to Finland; and in their place 40,000 Bashkir Tartars encamp in the streets.

They have come from the governments of Orenburgh and Perm, from their steppes and nomad encampments, and have entered St. Petersburg for the protection of the city, where they made a hideous impression. They have still the Tartar weapons of bow and arrows, and billhook, and will therefore make capital food for powder. They steal more dexterously than the Crows, and they possess all the other Tartar virtues, theoretically and practically.

Strangers who have money in the bank find great difficulty in getting it, for the bank pays out to no person whatever per day more than 50 silver roubles. In this way a poor Frenchman, who wanted to draw out the hard-earned savings of many years, namely 1,500 silver roubles, was obliged to run backward and forward for more than a month, having to wait every morning in the crowd till he could get served before he could get back his own again, though he lost thereby the place he had booked and paid for at the coach-office weeks before. These things are all sad enough, and may perhaps incline the Czar to a truce, and then to peace, but they must be taken advantage of, so that he may be kept within due bounds for the future.

A pleasure party, consisting of some gentlemen of this place, with some friends from Indianapolis, Ind., intend setting out in a few days for a coasting voyage around Lake Superior.—They go to the Sault by the Queen City on Tuesday, her next trip, and thence take their own time and pleasure. They claim to have the nearest outfit that ever went forth on that lake, taking with them a sail boat about twenty-five feet keel, a tent, swinging hammocks, lots of provisions, cooking utensils, fire-arms, and the necessary scientific instruments. They will be some two or three months, according to the pleasure of the party. The object of the expedition is manifold; the pursuit of health, wealth, science and adventure. It is the intention of several members of the "expedition" to keep a journal; should they meet with anything worth publishing, "I faith they'll print it," as is fashionable now-a-days.—Wisconsin.

The crops in this county never looked better than at the present time. The winter wheat is fast ripening, and several farmers in this vicinity have already commenced cutting it. If the weather remains good, the amount of wheat raised in this county will exceed that of any former year by at least 50,000 bushels. Spring grain of all kinds is looking extremely well.—The farmers are now busy at haying and will soon commence the harvest in good earnest.—Waukegan Plain Dealer, 12th inst.

Good News.—The railroad bill which we alluded to last week as having passed the house, has now passed the senate without amendment. It has only one more gauntlet to run, that of getting the president's signature. Some of the papers croak about a veto. We think they borrow trouble needlessly—though after all perhaps "the risk is father to the thought." We shall have to remain on the anxious seat until the decision is made public.—St. Anthony Democrat.

DEAD.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. Hichcox of St. Paul, who was injured in an affray with a drayman last week, died of the wound at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. His funeral took place yesterday, and it is gratifying to record that so many found time and inclination to devote a portion of the festive day to the melancholy duty of attending to his last obsequies.—This is a very sad occurrence; and may well spread a gloom over all this portion of territory. Mr. Hichcox was one of the pioneers of St. Paul and did much to add to its mercantile importance. As a citizen of the territory, he was esteemed. But he is gone—suddenly gone—from earthly labor and earthly pleasure. The business circle so suddenly ruptured will soon close up, and the place that once knew him "will know him now no more," but a family circle has been broken which time cannot heal, and a home is made desolate forever.—St. Anthony Democrat.

NEWSPAPER EXPENSES.—The price of paper having risen in Great Britain as it has in this country, to a rate seriously diminishing if not altogether destroying the profits of some of the provincial journals, they have resolved to increase their rates of sale and subscription. In the price of newspapers two cents on a copy. The Birmingham Journal has just taken the lead with a similar enhancement.

A tornado passed over Adrian, Lenawee co., Michigan, on the 29th of June. Just at dusk the clouds began to dash furiously from all quarters towards the zenith, but the air near the earth was still almost to suffocation. At about half past 10 o'clock a tornado came sweeping along from the northeast with tremendous fury, destroying everything in its course. It laid the forest prostrate for half a mile in width, twisting the most sturdy trees like withes and rending their roots from the ground like so many weeds. A dwelling house was unroofed; corn house unroofed and moved several feet from its foundation; log house completely blown down; orchards uprooted and destroyed, fences leveled and growing crops injured.

SUDDEN DEATH.—J. T. Bailey, an estimable citizen and one of the first settlers of Watertown, died very suddenly on Friday last. In the morning he went into the field to work, and about 10 o'clock came to the house, when drinking too freely of cold water while warm, he soon was a corpse. The extreme heat of the morning with the exercise in the field had no doubt over-heated his blood.—Watertown Chronicle.

The Hunters' Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

One bright, beautiful forenoon, some three or four hundred miles after we had passed the outposts, some five or six of the old veterans of the Northwest company's men who were returning with us from the lower station on Yellow Stone, proposed, as the steamer drew up alongside the bank to wood—which for the last four days had been done by cutting and splitting the green scrub oak, poplar and other such small growth as grew along the bank most convenient to the boats, and placing so much as we could of it on the top of the boilers to kindle—these old hunters proposed, as I was about to say, to have a buffalo hunt while the steamer was wooding.

"Now then, lads," said Judah Goinly, as he led his Indian man ashore and flung himself into the saddle the last of our party—"now then, lads, we are all ready, and we'll keep this trail up the river to the Little Walnut Bottom, where we shall find buffalo any time after noon."

Off we went at a brisk canter, and excellently mounted, and each armed with a prime rifle, besides the usual outfit peculiar to the frontier, consisting of pistols, and a delicate bit of steel some fourteen inches in length, half an inch thick in the back, and keen enough to shave very cleverly with, which arbitrary custom had christened and made famous as the Arkansas tooth pick.

It was about 10 A. M. when we left the steamer, and so well did our horses perform after six days rest, that by half past twelve we raised the sharp ridge which cut the course of the river at right angles, nearly twenty miles by the channel and over fifteen miles by the route we had come from the steamer, and ten minutes thereafter, we were tearing headlong down the northern slope of the ridge, plying our horses like mad men to full upon a herd of full a thousand and buffalo, most of which were drinking when we first discovered them.

At first old Judah raved and shouted and cursed us for crazy know nothing fools, for thus driving right into a herd of buffaloes, among which there were doubtless at least thirty monster bulls, who would trample us to death as easily as a mastiff would crush a mouse beneath his paw.

But the old hunter's warning was lost upon my companions, who had sucked at their side arms during the ride till they were utterly reckless of everything. As for myself, that was my first appearance on a prairie stage in the character of a buffalo hunter, and little did I know or care of the danger attendant on an experiment like ours.

When Goinly saw that all warning was useless, he gave a tremendous whoop, and dashing forward at the head of our little troop, he shouted:

"Come on, ye cursed fools! ye'll learn something before ye get out of this bottom, or my name ain't Judah Goinly."

On the level bottom, and about a hundred rods from the base of the ridge, was a belt of wood, which hid the buffaloes from our sight as we gained the level; but from the great tramp we could hear on the other side, we judged that the herd were all on foot and rolling off towards the prairies. We were mistaken, for just as we reined in our horses on the edge of the belt of brushwood, which we found impassable, a quick cry of alarm from one of our party called our attention towards the river bank not three hundred yards distant, and there, stretching from the wood to the base of the ridge, was a solid wall of curly pates, vast humps and brawny shoulders of at least two thousand animals, which had been concealed by the banks, so that we had not seen them from the ridge.

On they came—that avalanche of monsters, with smoking nostrils, gleaming eyeballs, and their short stumpy horns forming a serrated hedge more formidable than ever did the bayonets of even Napoleon's favorites—invisible "Old Guard."

"Back! back to the ridge before they come upon us!" yelled two or three of our number; and very calmly, old Judah commenced to reply—

"Back to the ridge, eh? Fools! which of you has ever seen a horse that has been ridden fifteen miles, keep pace with a buffalo bull?"

It is full three hundred rods from here to the foot of hill, while these fellows are less than as many yards from us. You see we must—

"Ha—by the heart of Jacob Astor! we are in a tight place now, lads," he yelled out as we were interrupted by the whizz of at least a dozen bullets, some of which came so close to our persons, as I myself judged from a sharp snap on my metal canteen, slung under my left arm, and a rather clear aperture through the lapel of my hunting frock.

"Now ye see, lads, we must work our horses into this thicket if we can, so far that none of them rolling devils will get a foul of us, and when they are all past we must steer for the river, for you fellows are Crows, and we had better take our chances among the horns and hoofs of these critters than to get in range of them red niggers' rifles. Come! come, lads! In with ye!"

But the old hunter's advice had occupied several moments of our time that should have been devoted to digging into the bramble, and ere a single horse had made a break into the dense wall of briars, twigs and foliage, the buffaloes, with a roar, a plunge and a crush, were upon us.

In a moment we were separated, one here and another there, in among a hedge of thorns, and amid a continuous roar of buffalo bull thunder, we were borne on, helpless and impotent, in the center of the vast herd, while at short intervals, I could hear the sharp ringing report of the Crows' rifles, followed by the whistle of their bullets; but as if by a miracle for full twenty minutes, during which time the herd was confined between the belt of brushwood and the ridge, we were hurried along with them, without any one of our number receiving the slightest injury either from the buffaloes or our friends the Crows.

At last, when the head of the belt of timber was gained, and the herd began to spread out and sweep to the westward, by some singular chance the old hunter and myself were flung together, and at the same time out clear of the buffalo stream on the left.

For a single instant we reined in our horses, and as we did so, I pointed to the Indians—some fifty in all, I should think—who had ridden along the summit of the ridge, keeping just about the same distance from us that they had been at first.

"Yes, I see the red thieves," said my companion, very calmly, as his eye followed the direction of my finger. "I see 'em, lieutenant, and I can tell you they carry the Cincinnati rifle—too light to kill a hard shelled old fellow like me, this distance. But our boys are all off west with the buffaloes, and we are left here to play a hop and dodge with the thieves' Crows."

"Well, we must back to the river, and ford it somewhere, for you see them skunks are dividing—about forty of 'em are coming down to follow the buffaloes and our fellows, and them other skunks—ton of 'em—will hang around us till they wing us, unless we can play the Indian better than they can. Come, lieutenant, and the next breath we were dashing away towards the river, while the ten Crows were gradually

closing in with us as they urged on their horses towards the river.

We were within perhaps two hundred yards of the bank, with the heads of at least thirty Indians thrust up above the feathery scarf of fern that grew along the very edge of the bank.

"This won't do, lieutenant," said the old hunter, apparently not the least moved as far as I could discover. "It won't do, sir," and he caught my left hand bridle rein, whirling my horse's head away from the river with his own; and as both animals dashed off over the ground just traversed, old Judah went on—

"It's no use, lieutenant, to try for the river now. There's five hundred of the thieves' Crows on the other side, and the only chance is now, to distance them devils on the hills there, and get far enough ahead of 'em to cross the ridge again and pull out for the steamer. And now, lieutenant, don't worry down your animal in the start, nor above everything else don't waste a single bullet. We shall want 'em every one before we get clear."

At the moment we turned to retrace our steps the savages whose heads we had only seen above the fern, now rose full in view, horses and all, as they rushed up the bank; and in less than thirty seconds were thundering along on our trail, while the ten warriors on the hill side came yelling on after us, keeping up a dropping fire, which we were too busy to reply to, until they would come within range of our heavier pieces; which at the rate we were going, we began to hope there was little prospect of their doing.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1854.

THE MASS CONVENTION AT MADISON.—A large delegation from this city were in attendance at the people's convention at Madison on Thursday, and all whom we have seen since their return concur in representing it as very fully attended, enthusiastic, harmonious and most respectable in the character of its members.

About fifteen hundred persons are said to have been present from all parts of the state, and all parties were represented both in the convention at large and in its officers. Prominent men from the three parties addressed the convention, and there was, as nearly as we can learn, a disposition to drop all matters of former difference and take up the issues forced upon us by the passage of the Nebraska bill. A friend who attended the convention has furnished us with the names of persons composing the officers and committees as nearly as he can recollect them.

A temporary organization was effected at 11 o'clock a. m., by the choice of Gen. Wm. Blake for chairman. A committee on permanent organization was appointed, which after a recess till 2 o'clock, reported the following as the officers of the convention:

John Walworth, president.
S. Wakeley, of Walworth, Albert Smith, of Milwaukee, Wm. Blake, Dodge, Charles Roemer, Manitowish, J. S. Mills, Grant, Hollis, Bank, W. W. Noyes, Columbia, J. O. Bartlett, Racine, and N. W. Dean, Dane, vice presidents.
H. Rublee, Dane, L. F. Frisbee, Columbia, secretaries.

J. A. Sleeper, Charles Holt, of Rock, W. Spooner, of Walworth, D. Atwood, of Dane, R. A. Bird, of Okauchee, B. Dunwiddie, Green, and S. Baird, of Dodge, committee on resolutions.

The following was then reported as the platform, and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the repeated and long continued encroachments of the slave power, culminating at last in the repeal of the law of freedom in all the hitherto unorganized territory of the Union, forces upon us the conviction that there is no escape from the alternative of freedom or slavery, and that the future administration of the government shall be devoted to the one or the other.

Resolved, That we accept this issue, forced upon us by the slave power, and in the defense of freedom will co-operate, and be known as Republicans, pledged to the accomplishment of the following purposes:

To bring the administration of the government back to the control of first principles.
To restore Nebraska and Kansas to the position of free territories.

To the repeal and entire abrogation of the fugitive slave act.

To restrict slavery to the states in which it exists.

To prohibit the admission of any more slave states into the Union.

To exclude slavery from all the territories over which the federal government has exclusive jurisdiction. And to resist the acquisition of any more territory unless the prohibition of slavery therein forever shall have been first provided for.

Resolved, That in furtherance of these purposes, we will use such constitutional and lawful means as shall seem best adapted to their accomplishment; and that we will support no man for office under the general or state governments, who is not positively and fully committed to the support of these principles, and whose personal character and conduct is not a guarantee that he is reliable.

Resolved, That we cordially invite all persons, whether of native or foreign birth who are in favor of the objects expressed in the above resolutions, to unite with us in carrying them into effect.

After the adoption of this platform, the convention voted for the appointment of a state committee, to consist of three at large, and two from each congressional district. The following compose this committee:

At large, — White, Dane, chairman, J. A. Sleeper, Rock, E. Wunderly, Milwaukee.
1st dist., W. Spooner, Walworth, E. B. Walcott, Milwaukee.
2d dist., John Walworth, Green, Orasmus Cole, Grant.
3d dist., S. Baird, Dodge, the other not remembered.

The meeting was addressed in the afternoon, by Messrs. Mitchell, of Fond du Lac, M. H. Orton, Gen. Paine, L. F. Harvey, and G. B. Ely, of this county, and H. S. Orton, after which adjourned till evening. On the re-assembling of the convention, speeches were made by Messrs. J. A. Sleeper, Dunn, Stebbins, McKee, Johnson, J. S. Mills, Dodge, &c., and the speaking continued until 10 o'clock, when the convention adjourned with three times three cheers for the "Republican Party."

During the past year $18,000,000 of the public debt has been paid by the government.

ST. PETERSBURGH AS IT IS.—A letter writer represents St. Petersburg, as gloomy indeed. The city once so beautiful and full of life is not to be recognized. Palaces are converted into barracks, bridges are broken down; quays are deserted; no person is allowed to be out after nine o'clock at night; the city is under martial law; foreigners are under suspicion; trade is stagnant, and manufacturers at a stand still. The magnificent guard has gone away; partly to Poland and partly to Finland; and in their place 40,000 Bashkir Tartars encamp in the streets.

They have come from the governments of Orenburgh and Perm, from their steppes and nomad encampments, and have entered St. Petersburg for the protection of the city, where they made a hideous impression. They have still the Tartar weapons of bow and arrows, and bill-hook, and will therefore make capital food for powder. They steal more dangerously than the Crows, and they possess all the other Tartar virtues, theoretically and practically.

Strangers who have money in the bank find great difficulty in getting it, for the bank pays out to no person whatever per day more than 50 silver roubles. In this way a poor Frenchman, who wanted to draw out the hard-earned savings of many years, namely 1,500 silver roubles, was obliged to run backward and forward for more than a month, having to wait every morning in the crowd till he could get served before he could get back his own again, though he lost thereby the place he had booked and paid for at the coach-office weeks before. These things are all sad enough, and may perhaps incline the Czar to a truce, and then to peace, but they must be taken advantage of, so that they may be kept within due bounds for the future.

A pleasure party, consisting of some gentlemen of this place, with some friends from Indianapolis, Ind., intend setting out in a few days for a coasting voyage around Lake Superior. They go to the South by the Queen City on Tuesday, and next trip, and thence take their own time and pleasure. They claim to have the nearest outfit that ever went forth on that lake, taking with them a sail boat about twenty-five feet keel, a tent, swinging hammocks, lots of provisions, cooking utensils, fire-arms, and the necessary scientific instruments. They will be some two or three months, according to the pleasure of the party. The object of the expedition is manifold; the pursuit of health, wealth, science and adventure. It is the intention of several members of the "expedition" to keep a journal; should they meet with anything worth publishing, "I faith they'll pen it," as is fashionable now-a-days.—Wisconsin.

The crops in this county never looked better than at the present time. The winter wheat is fast ripening, and several farmers in this vicinity have already commenced cutting it. If the weather remains good, the amount of wheat raised in this county will exceed that of any former year by at least 60,000 bushels. Spring grain of all kinds is looking extremely well. The farmers are now busy at haying, and will soon commence the harvest in good earnest.—Waukegan Plain Dealer, 12th inst.

GOOD NEWS.—The railroad bill which we alluded to last week as having passed the house, has now passed the senate without amendment. It has only one more amendment to run, that of getting the president's signature. Some of the papers croak about a veto. We think they are wrong. The bill is a good one, and all the "expedition" should be glad to see it. We shall have to remain on the anxious seat until the decision is made public.—St. Anthony Democrat.

DEAD.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. Hichcox of St. Paul, who was injured in an affray with a drayman last week, died of the wound at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. His funeral took place yesterday, and it is gratifying to record that so many found time and inclination to devote a portion of the festive day to the melancholy duty of attending to his last obsequies. This is a very sad occurrence, and may well spread a gloom over all this portion of territory. Mr. Hichcox was one of the pioneers of St. Paul and did much to add to the mercantile importance of this city. He was a citizen of the territory, he was esteemed. But he is gone—suddenly, gone from earthly labor and earthly pleasure. The business circle so suddenly ruptured will soon close up, and the place that once knew him "will know him now no more," but a family circle has been broken which time cannot heal, and a home is made desolate forever.—St. Anthony Democrat.

NEWSPAPER EXPENSES.—The price of paper having risen in Great Britain as it has in this country, to a rate seriously diminishing if not altogether destroying the profits of some of the provincial journals, they have resolved to increase their rates of sale and subscription. In the case of the Birmingham Journal, for example, the Birmingham Journal has just taken the lead with a similar enhancement.

A tornado passed over Adrian, Lenawee co., Michigan, on the 29th of June. Just at dusk the clouds began to dash furiously from all quarters towards the zenith, but the air near the earth was still almost to suffocation. At about half past 10 o'clock a tornado came sweeping along from the northeast with tremendous fury, destroying everything in its course. It laid the forest prostrate for half a mile in width, twisting their roots from the ground like so many weeds. A dwelling house was unroofed; corn house unroofed and moved several feet from its foundation; log house completely blown down; orchards uprooted and destroyed, fences leveled and growing crops injured.

SUDDEN DEATH.—J. T. Bailey, an estimable citizen and one of the first settlers of Watertown, died very suddenly on Friday last. In the morning he went into the field to work, and about 10 o'clock came to the house, when drinking too freely of cold water while warm, he soon was a corpse. The extreme heat of the morning with the exercise in the field had no doubt over-heated his blood.—Watertown Chronicle.

I want to state further that I have secured the services of Mr. BUCKINGHAM, who has formerly been engaged in the manufacturing business on the west side of

River, and who is known by every one to be the manufacturer in the city, and if we don't get quality, we will forfeit our money and our reputa-

NEW GOODS!
$15,000 Worth of
BOOTS AND SHOES

Wisconsin Boot & Shoe Store

I AM now receiving one of the largest, best and finest stocks of Boots and Shoes that I have ever brought to this State, and which I think is finer than all the rest, I can sell them at lower prices than have ever sold before, notwithstanding the great advance in the Eastern Market. My assortment of

Ladies Fine Shoes,

In particular, I have no hesitation in saying, cannot be equaled in the State, both for style and durability, I will make it my business to call on you, and to exhibit to you every article I sell, with the understanding, all times, that if they do not come up to the warrant they shall be freed of my charge.

GENTLEMEN'S WEAR.

In this line I know beyond a doubt that I can sh five per cent. that can be found at any of the shoe shops or Dry Goods stores along the coast. I have been in the business for 15 years, and I have seen the HOOT and SHOE TRADE my WHOLESTORY, and that I Buy More, Sell More and know more about the trade, than the whole of the petty dealers in the whole of the coast. I have a full stock of every article and subject for Every Farmer in Rock County, as well as every one of the trades in Janesville to buy their Boots and Shoes of for the more I sell the smaller profits I can sell at.

Manufacturing.

I want to say a few words to you in regard to the Manufacturing Department, to be sure: That I am now manufacturing more than 100,000 pairs of shoes, and probably sell more custom work than all the shops about town put together. I am doing these things in a different way from the other shoe makers, in that, while every one knows is worth twenty per cent more than the common western turned leather shoe; and what is a better reason and of greater importance, I can

Sell my Custom Work at Much Lower Prices.

Now I want to tell you a better article than you can get at the shops, for this reason, which you will all see is a very palpable one, that in buying my work

I want to state further that I have secured the services of Mr. JACKSON, who has formerly been engaged in the manufacturing business, and is now in the state of Illinois. We will give one to be the manufacturer in the city; and if we don't get up a better article, both in regard to style and durability, we will forfeit our money and our credit, and I pledge you my word that it is no small feat.

Leather and Findings

I have just received over $3,000 worth of best quality of English, Polish & Upper Leather; also, a very large assortment of PREMONT, PHILADELPHIA KIP and FRENCH CALF SKIN, together with a full assortment of MOROCCO of the kind, which I will sell at a low price.

Precisely Milwaukee and Chicago Prices

I have constantly on hand, also, a large assortment of FINISH, BROWN, BLACK, GREEN, RED, etc., etc., all of which will be sold at the same rates.

I request the attention of manufacturers in business as in the country to my stock, as I think I can sell you a much superior article to that which you are of the peddlers.

TO THE LADIES.

the partiality you have shown me, in always presenting your understandings from me, and I now publicly promise and swear that I will make no use of one of your affidavits until to the same present of a land parcel of CACKS, when I shall have closed up my selling career. I would say further, that I am prepared to get up to order any style of work you wish, at rates.

Yours respectfully,
J. H. SMOCK, Proprietor,
T. H. AUCKLAND, Foreman.

By the way, don't forget the location of the Junction, these doors above the Post Office, Jackson, Wisconsin.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all circumstances for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the success of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium. The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL, LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, stock, &c., from one to five years at lower rates than any other responsible company.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, the property being less hazardous, and any other consequences you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, barns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTING THEM ALONE.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been in business a little over three years, and we have not been able to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given us to the responsibility of the company.

The Hunter's Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

One bright, beautiful forenoon, some three or four hundred miles after we had passed the outpost, some five or six of the old veterans of the Northwest company's men who were returning with us from the lower station on Yellow Stone, proposed, as the steamer drew up alongside the bank to wood—which for the last four days had been done by cutting and splitting the green scrub oak, poplar and other small growth as grow along the bank most convenient to the boats, and placing so much as we could of it on the top of the boilers to kill dry—these old hunters proposed, as I was about to say, to have a buffalo hunt while the steamer was wooding.

"Now then, lads," said Judah Gaily, "as he led his Indian mustangs ashore and flung himself into the saddle the last of our party—"now then, lads, we are all ready, and we'll keep this trail up the river to the Little Walnut Bottom, where we shall find buffalo any time after noon."

Off we went at a brisk canter, and excellently mounted, and each armed with a prime rifle, besides the usual outfit peculiar to the frontier, consisting of pistols, and a delicate bit of steel some fourteen inches in length, half an inch thick in the back, and keen enough to shave very cleverly with, which arbitrary custom had christened and made famous as the Arkansas tooth pick.

It was about 10 A. M. when we left the steamer, and so well did our horses perform after six days rest, that by half past twelve we reached the sharp ridge which cut the course of the river at right angles, nearly twenty miles by the channel and over fifteen miles by the route we had come from the steamer, and ten minutes thereafter, we were tearing headlong down the northern slope of the ridge, urging our horses like mad men to full upon a herd of full a thousand and more, most of which were drinking when we first discovered them.

At first old Judah raved and shouted and cursed us for crazy kids, for thus driving right into a herd of buffaloes, among which there were doubtless at least thirty monster bulls, who would trample us to death as easy as a mastiff would crush a mouse beneath his paw.

But the old hunter's warning was lost upon my companions, who had sucked at their side arms during the ride till they were utterly reckless of everything. As for myself, that was my first appearance on a prairie-ride in the character of a buffalo hunter, and little did I know or care of the danger attendant on an experiment like ours.

When Gaily saw that all warning was useless, he gave a tremendous whoop, and dashing forward at the head of our little troop, he shouted:

"Come on, ye cursed fools! ye'll learn something before ye get out of this bottom, or my name ain't Judah Gaily!"

On the level bottom, and about a hundred rods from the base of the ridge, was a belt of wood, which hid the buffaloes from our sight as we gained the level; but from the great tramp we could hear on the other side, we judged that the herd were all on foot and rolling off towards the prairie. We were mistaken, for just as we reined in our horses on the edge of the belt of brushwood, which we found impassable, a quick cry of alarm from one of our party called our attention towards the river bank not three hundred yards distant, and there, stretching from the wood to the base of the ridge, was a solid wall of curly pates, vast humps and brawny shoulders of at least two thousand animals, which had been concealed by the banks, so that we had not seen them from the ridge.

On they came—that avalanche of monsters, with flaming nostrils, gleaming eyeballs, and their short stumpy horns forming a serrated hedge more formidable than ever did the bayonets of even Napoleon's favorites—invisible "Old Guard!"

"Back! back to the ridge before they come upon us!" yelled two or three of our number; and very calmly, old Judah commenced to reply:

"Back to the ridge, eh? Fools! which of you has ever seen a horse that has been ridden fifteen miles, keep pace with a buffalo bull? It is full three hundred rods from here to the foot of hill, while these fellows are less than a yard from us. You see we must—"

"Ha—by the heart of Jacob Astor! we are in a tight place now, lads," he yelled out as he was interrupted by the whizzing of at least a dozen bullets, some of which came so close to our persons, as I myself judged from a sharp trap on my metal canteen, slung under my left arm, and a rather clear aperture through the loop of my hunting frock.

"Now you see, lads, we must work our horses into this thickets if we can; so that none of them rolling devils will get afraid of us, and when they are all past we must steer for the river, for you fellows are Crows, and we had better risk our chances among the horns and hoofs of these critters than to get in range of them red niggers' rifles. Come! come, lads! In with ye!"

But the old hunter's advice had occupied several moments of our time that should have been devoted to digging into the bramble, and ere a single horse had made a break into the dense wall of briars, twigs and foliage, the buffaloes, with a roar, a plunge and a crush, were upon us.

In a moment we were separated, one here and another there, in among a hedge of thorns, and amid a continuous roar of buffalo bull thunders, we were borne on, helpless and impotent, in the centre of the vast herd, while at short intervals, I could hear the sharp ringing report of the Crows' rifles, followed by the whistle of their bullets; but as if by a miracle for full twenty minutes, during which time the herd was confined between the belt of brushwood and the ridge, we were hurried along with them, without any one of our number receiving the slightest injury either from the buffaloes or our friends the Crows.

At last, when the head of the belt of timber was gained, and the herd began to spread out and sweep to the westward, by some singular chance the old hunter and myself were flung together, and at the same time out clear of the buffalo stream on the left.

For a single instant we reined in our horses, and as we did so, I pointed to the Indians—some fifty in all, I should think—who had ridden along the summit of the ridge, keeping just behind the same distance from us that they had been at first.

"Yes, I see the red thiefs," said my companion, "very calmly, as they followed the direction of my finger." "I see 'em," I leant back, and I can tell you they carry the Cincinnati rifle—too light to kill a hard-shelled old fellow like me, this distance. But our boys are all off west with the buffaloes, and we are left here to play a hop and doggo with the thieving Crows."

"Well, we must back to the river, and ford it somewhere, for you see them skunks are dividing—about forty of 'em are coming down to follow the buffaloes and our fellows, and them other sneaks—ten of 'em—will hang around us till they wing us, unless we can play the Indian better than they can. Come, lieutenant," and the next breath we were dashing away towards the river, while the ten Crows were gradually closing in with us as they urged on their horses towards the river.

"We were within perhaps two hundred yards of the bank, when the heads of at least thirty Indians thrust up above the feathery skirt of fern that grew along the very edge of the bank."

"This won't do, lieutenant," said the old hunter, apparently not the least moved as far as I could discover. "It won't do, sir," and he caught my left hand bridle rein, whirling my horse's head away from the river with his own; and as both animals dashed off over the ground just traversed, old Judah went on—

"It's no use, lieutenant, to try for the river now. There's five hundred of the thieving Crows on the other side, and the only chance is now, to distance them devils on the hills there, and get far enough ahead of 'em to cross the ridge again and pull out for the steamer. And now, lieutenant, don't worry down your animal in the start, nor above everything else don't waste a single bullet. We shall want 'em every one before we get clear."

At the moment we turned to retrace our steps the savages whose heads we had only seen above the fern, now rose fully in view, horses and all; as they rushed up the bank; and in less than thirty seconds were thundering along on our trail, while the ten warriors on the hill side came yelling on after us, keeping up a dropping fire, which we were too busy to reply to, until they would come within surer range of our heavier pieces; which at the rate we were going, we began to hope there was little prospect of their doing.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1854.

THE MASS CONVENTION AT MADISON.—A large delegation from this city were in attendance at the people's convention at Madison on Thursday, and all whom we have seen since their return concur in representing it as very fully attended, enthusiastic, harmonious and most respectable in the character of its members. About fifteen hundred persons are said to have been present, from all parts of the state, and all parties were represented both in the convention at large and in its officers. Prominent men from the three parties addressed the convention, and there was, as nearly as we can learn, a disposition to drop all matters of former difference and take up the issues forced upon us by the passage of the Nebraska bill. A friend who attended the convention has furnished us with the names of persons composing the officers and committees as nearly as he can recollect them.

A temporary organization was effected at 11 o'clock a. m., by the choice of Gen. Wm. Blake for chairman. A committee on permanent organization was appointed, which after a recess till 2 o'clock, reported the following as the officers of the convention:

John Walworth, president.
S. Wakeley, of Walworth; Albert Smith, of Milwaukee; Wm. Blake, Dodge, Charles Rosser, Manitowish, J. S. Mills, Grant; Hollis, Sauk; W. W. Noyes, Columbia; J. O. Baird, Racine; and N. W. Dean, Dane, vice presidents.
H. Rublee, Dane; L. E. Frisbie, Columbia, secretaries.
J. A. Sleeper, Charles Holt, of Rock; W. Spooner, of Walworth; D. Atwood, of Dane; R. A. Bird, of Ozaukee; B. D. Widdiell, Green; and S. Baird, of Dodge, committee on resolutions.

The following was then reported as the platform, and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the repeated and long continued encroachments of the slave power, culminating at last in the repeal of the law of freedom in all the hitherto unorganized territory of the Union, forces upon us the conviction that there is no escape from the alternative of freedom or slavery, as a political issue which is to determine whether the future administration of the government shall be devoted to the one or the other.

Resolved, That we accept this issue, forced upon us by the slave power; and in the defense of freedom we co-operate and be known as Republicans, pledged to the accomplishment of the following purposes:

To bring the administration of the government back to the control of first principles.

To restore Nebraska and Kansas to the position of free territories.

To the repeal and entire abrogation of the fugitive slave act.

To restrict slavery to the states in which it exists.

To prohibit the admission of any more slave states into the Union.

To exclude slavery from all the territories over which the general government has exclusive jurisdiction. And to resist the acquisition of any more territory unless the prohibition of slavery therein forever shall have been first provided for.

Resolved, That in furtherance of these purposes, we will use such constitutional and lawful means as shall seem best adapted to their accomplishment; and that we will support no man for office under the general or state governments, who is not positively and fully committed to the support of these principles, and whose personal character and conduct is not a guaranty that he is reliable.

Resolved, That we cordially invite all persons, whether of native or foreign birth, who are in favor of the objects expressed in the above resolutions, to unite with us in carrying them into effect.

After the adoption of this platform, the convention voted for the appointment of a state committee, to consist of three at large, and two from each congressional district. The following compose this committee:

At large, — White, Dane, chairman, J. A. Sleeper, Rock, E. Winderly, Milwaukee.
1st dist., W. Spooner, Walworth, E. B. Walcott, Milwaukee.
2d dist., John Walworth, Green, Orasmus Cole, Grant.
3d dist., S. Baird, Dodge, the other not remembered.

The meeting was addressed in the afternoon, by Messrs. Mitchell, of Fond du Lac, M. H. Orton, Gen. Paine, L. P. Harvey, and G. B. Ely, of this county, and H. S. Orton, after which adjourned till evening. On the re-assembling of the convention, speeches were made by Messrs. J. A. Sleeper, Dunn, Stebbins, McKee, Johnson, J. S. Mills, Booth, &c., and the speaking continued until 10 o'clock, when the convention adjourned with three times three cheers for the "Republican Party."

During the past year $10,000,000 of the public debt has been paid by the government.

ST. PETERSBURG AS IT IS.—A letter written represents St. Petersburg, as gloomy indeed. The city once so beautiful and full of life is not to be recognized. Palaces are converted into barracks, bridges are broken down; quays are deserted; no person is allowed to be out after nine o'clock at night; the city is under martial law; foreigners are under suspicion; trade is stagnant, and manufacturers at a stand still. The magnificent guard has gone away; partly to Poland and partly to Finland; and in their place 40,000 Daskhir Tartars encamp in the streets.

They have come from the governments of Orenburgh and Perm, from their steppes and nomad encampments, and have entered St. Petersburg for the protection of the city, where they made a hideous impression. They have still the Tartar weapons of bow and arrow, and bill-hook, and will therefore make capital food for powder. They steal more dexterously than the crows, and they possess all the other Tartar virtues, theoretically and practically.

Strangers who have money in the bank find great difficulty in getting it, for the bank pays out to no person whatever per day more than 50 silver rubles. In this way a poor Frenchman, who wanted to draw out the hard-earned savings of many years, namely 1,500 silver rubles, was obliged to run backward and forward for more than a month, having to wait every morning in the crowd till he could get served before he could get back his own again, though he lost thereby the place he had booked and paid for at the coach-office weeks before. These things are all sad enough, and may perhaps incline the Czar to a truce, and then to peace, but they must be taken advantage of, so that he may be kept within due bounds for the future.

A pleasure party, consisting of some gentlemen of this place, with some friends from Indianapolis, Ind., intend setting out in a few days for a coasting voyage around Lake Superior. They go to the South by the Queen City on Tuesday, her next trip, and thence take their own time and pleasure. They claim to have the nearest outfit that ever went forth on that lake, taking with them a sail boat about twenty-five feet keel, a ton, swinging hammocks, lots of provisions, cooking utensils, fire-arms, and the necessary scientific instruments. They will be some two or three months, according to the pleasure of the party. The object of the expedition is manifold; the pursuit of health, wealth, science and adventure. It is the intention of several members of the "expedition" to keep a journal; should they meet with anything worth publishing, "I faith they'll print," as is fashionable now-a-days. — Wisconsin.

The crops in this county never looked better than at the present time. The winter wheat is fast ripening, and several farmers in this vicinity, have already commenced cutting it. If the weather remains good, the amount of wheat raised in this county will exceed that of any former year by at least 50,000 bushels. Spring grain of all kinds is looking extremely well. The farmers are now busy at laying, and will soon commence the harvest in good earnest. — Waukegan Plain Dealer, 12th inst.

GOOD NEWS.—The railroad bill which we alluded to last week as having passed the house, has now passed the senate without amendment. It has only one more gauntlet to run, that of getting the president's signature. Some of the papers croak about a veto. We think they sorrow trouble needlessly—though after all perhaps "the risk is father to the thought." We shall have to remain on the anxious seat until the decision is made public. — St. Anthony Democrat.

DEAD.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. Hichcox of St. Paul, who was injured in an affray with a drayman last week, died of the wound at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. His funeral took place yesterday, and it is gratifying to record that so many found time and inclination to devote a portion of the festive day to the melancholy duty of attending to his last obsequies. This is a very sad occurrence; and may well spread a gloom over all this portion of territory. Mr. Hichcox was one of the pioneers of St. Paul and did much to add to its mercantile importance. As a citizen of the territory, he was esteemed. But he is gone—suddenly gone—from earthly labor and earthly pleasure. The business circle so suddenly ruptured will soon close up, and the place that once knew him "will know him now no more," but a family circle has been broken which time cannot heal, and a home is made desolate forever. — St. Anthony Democrat.

NEWSPAPER EXPENSES.—The price of paper having risen in Great Britain as it has in this country; to a "seriously diminishing if not altogether destroying the profits of some of the provincial journals, they have resolved to increase their rates of sale and subscription. In consequence of this now going on to raise the price of newspapers two cents on a copy. The Birmingham Journal has just taken the lead with a similar enhancement.

A tornado passed over Adrian, Lenawee co., Michigan, on the 29th of June. Just at dusk the clouds began to dash furiously from all quarters towards the zenith, but the air near the earth was still almost to suffocation. At about half past 10 o'clock a tornado came sweeping along from the northeast with tremendous fury, destroying everything in its course. It laid the forest prostrate for half a mile in width, twisting the most sturdy trees like withes and rending their roots from the ground like so many weeds. A dwelling house was unroofed; corn house unroofed and moved several feet from its foundation; log house completely blown down; orchards uprooted and destroyed, fences leveled and growing crops injured.

SUDDEN DEATH.—J. T. Bailey, an estimable citizen and one of the first settlers of Watertown, died very suddenly on Friday last. In the morning he went into the field to work, and about 10 o'clock came to the house, when drinking too freely of cold water while warm, he soon was a corpse. The extreme heat of the morning with the exercise in the field had no doubt over-heated his blood. — Watertown Chronicle.

JUST RECEIVED AT THE
Wisconsin Boot & Shoe Store

I AM now receiving one of the largest and finest stocks of Boots and Shoes that I ever before brought to Janesville, and what is more than all the rest, I can sell them at lower prices than have ever sold before, notwithstanding the great advance in the Eastern Market, as a result of the war.

Ladies Fine Shoes,
In particular, I have no hesitation in saying, cannot equalled in the State, both for style and durability, for all made to order, and in such a manner that I warrant every article I sell, with the understanding that all those that feel they are not worthy to the warranty shall be entitled free of charge.

GENTLEMEN'S WEAR.
In this line I know, however, doubt that I can you a finer assortment and at better prices than I can give you here. You will find it so if you visit my place five or six times. I have been about town, visiting friends, and they all understand that I make the HOIT AND SOUTHERN TRADES WHOLESTLY, and that I Thy More and know more of the business than any other dealer put together. And I know, that I can make it an object for Every Farmer in Rock County, as well as every one who trades in Janesville to buy their hardware from me, for the more I sell the larger profits I can sell at.

Manufacturing.

I want to say a few words to you in regard to manufacturing. It has been found by no means unprofitable to engage extensively in the manufacturing business, and probably to selling more custom work than at shops alone. I have seen many farmers who are successful in this line. I use better Stock, and consequently get more advantage, which every one knows is worth twenty per cent more than the common western timber land; and what is a better reason and of greater importance.

Sell my Custom Work at Much Lower Prices

and at the same time sell you a better article than can be got at the shops, for this reason, which you very large and in such large quantities, of course as cost more per cent, and thereby can sell at lower prices, and at the same time make my profit.

At the rate of my business I have secured the services of Mr. HEDGECOCK, who has formerly been employed in the manufacturing business on the west side of Chicago, and who is known by everyone to be the most thorough and experienced leather worker I have ever seen. I have a better article, both in regard to style and quality, we will forfeit our money and our reputation, and I pledge you my word that this is no small fact.

Leather and Findings

I have just received over $4,000 worth of the best brands of Eastern Boots & Upper Leather from the Philadelphia Kid and FINECH GOLF SKIN from Philadelphia with a full assortment of MOROCCO leather, which I will sell at

Precisely Milwaukee and Chicago Price

I have constantly on hand, also, a large assortment of all kinds of FINDINGS, TASTES, GOOD THINGS, ORN-AMENTS, and all the things that are used in the manufacture of leather goods.

I request the attention of manufacturers in to well as in the country to my stock; as I think

TO THE LADIES.

I would say that I am under very great obligations to the partiality you have shown me, in always procuring your underskirts from me, and I now publicly declare and swear, I will make every one of you as well be entitled to the same as present of a handsome pair of GASKS, when I shall have closed up my business to go to California, I would say further, that I am proud to get up orders in my style of work, you wish, I will satisfy.

Yours respect ally,

J. H. JACKSON, Proprietor,
No. 124 - 1/2 - 3rd St., Milwaukee, Wis.

By the way, don't forget to call on me, before you leave, three doors above the Post Office, June 18th, Wisconsin.
